Pak Everbright Development Organization

February Newsletter

Capacity building training for BRT stakeholders by PEDO at Khyber Pakhtunkhwa Urban Mobility Authority KPUMA, because It is safe to say that accessibility benefits all members of society including people with disabilities. Improving accessibility brings about increased quality of life; creates more independence and better social integration. It also leads to better health and can result in cost saving in a number of areas.

Accessibility can be viewed as the "ability to access" and benefit from some system or entity. The concept focuses on enabling access for people with disabilities, or enabling access through the use of assistive technology; however, research and development in accessibility brings benefits to everyone.
